

The human sciences as liberal arts

Master of arts (MA) with specialisation

GENERAL OUTLINE

Objectives

The Master of Arts allows students to acquire the knowledge and techniques required for a better grasp of contemporary realities, giving meaning to the intellectual wealth created by mankind over the centuries.

It offers a wide range of disciplines, from historical studies to theoretical approaches in the human sciences, languages and literature.

The specialisation programmes are study plans worth 30 ECTS credits that, when added to the Master of Arts course, allow to obtain a Master of Arts with Specialisation. Through an interdisciplinary approach, they offer the possibility, as the case may be, to deepen your knowledge in a particular field, to become familiar with academic research or to acquire a professionalising experience.

Perspectives

Thanks to the possibility of completing a work placement, this course offers you the chance to familiarise yourself with various areas of the arts (museums, theatres, festivals and foundations), communications, the media, events, translation, publishing, archives, cultural mediation or international organisations.

These assets are greatly appreciated and allow our alumni to have positions such as teacher, journalist, communications officer, documentary production manager, cultural mediator, translator, web and new media projects officer, arts festival programme coordinator, or book and image digitisation specialist.
